Will Proceed to The Interior

Miss Mabel Pick, who for the past two years has seen duty here as Deaconess of the Episcopal church, attached to St. Phillips of Wrangell, left on the last Humboldt for Ketchikan, from where she will probably proceed to a station in the Interior under orders from Rt. Rev. P. T. Rowe, Bishop of Alaska.

Miss Pick's quiet and pleasant ways and her notable devotion to her duties together with her cheerful readiness to aid anyone ill or unfortunate, have endeared her to the entire community, and her departure is felt to be a real loss to Wrangell.

Before leaving she was presented with a beautiful gold watch by the choir and attendants at St. Phillips.

At the Episcopal Church

"How shall Self-Sacrifice be Rewarded," will be the theme at the St. Phillips Church Sunday June 1. It will be a service patriotism especially suggested by Memorial Day.

There are 10 people at Crupple and Colorado creeks in the Innoko country to which a road recently has been made from Ruby. They expect to work actively during the summer, though it is estimated that the winter dumps will not produce more than $25,000.

—The stock in the Lovera Cigars is coming better than ever.

CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT

A deal was consummated Saturday, whereby I. G. Pruett and T. Berthelson became proprietors of the Kirmse Jewelry and curio store, and took possession on that day. The buy is a good one, as the store has a nice local trade in jewelry and curios in addition to the repair work, and captures a great deal of the tourist trade. The two new owners are both well-known in Ketchikan as being energetic young business men, Gus as assistant manager at the Tongass Trading company with which he has been associated for the past thirteen years, and possesses a host of friends and well-wishers. Mr. Berthelson has been in charge of the Kirmse store since its beginning in the neighborhood of a year ago and has made it the success it is. —Ketchikan Miner.

Rev. Corser, pastor of the Episcopal Church of Wrangell, returned from a three weeks trip to the Westward, Friday. Rev. Corser and Rev. Roe of Ketchikan, were accompanied by Bishop Roe.

Miss Clyda Schott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schott, left Sunday morning on the Taku Jack for Santa Ana where she is spending the week with her friend Mrs. Harris.

Capt. John Haverien, master of the Chilkat, attended the dance at Red Men's hall on Saturday night.

Mr. Louis Schott and wife, attended the dance on Saturday night. Mr. Schott is Superintendent of the A. P. A. cannery, located on the north end of Wrangell Island.

WAGON ROAD ASSURED TELEGRAPH

Supt. C. L. Cullen and Party on Way to Scene of Action

ROAD TO RUN FROM TELEGRAPH CREEK TO DEASE LAKE, B. C.

Supt. C. L. Cullen, of Victoria, accompanied by a number of associates, is in Wrangell awaiting the arrival of a boat to take him and his party to Telegraph Creek from where the government wagon road will be built to Dease Lake, a distance of seventy-five miles.

Mr. Cullen is an old newspaper man and formerly conducted a newspaper in Atlin, B. C. He is a very pleasant gentleman to meet, and was not averse to telling a representative of The Sentinel a little of what will be done in the way of building a good wagon road through that country to enable prospectors and miners to get in supplies and mining machinery.

Mr. Cullen is confident that the building of this road will bring into the country hundreds of prospectors who have heretofore been kept out because of the hardships incident to getting in supplies to last them through the season.

While the gold in that section is not of a coarse variety, there is in his opinion, miles of good pay that can be recommended by hydraulic process.

The building of this road means more to Wrangell than one would suppose at first thought. It will mean that all supplies will have to be landed here and reloaded on river boats for transportation up the Stikine.

Many of the older residents of Wrangell will remember the stirring days of '98, when it was proposed to build a railroad from Glenora to Lake Teslin. Thousands of people and thousands of tons of freight were landed here and much of the freight was taken up the river to Telegraph Creek and Glenora.

Had it not been that the contract for building the railroad was annulled a few weeks after Mann & MacKinzie, the contractors, began work, Wrangell would today have been the largest and leading city in Alaska. Nor is it too late now for such an event to take place. With good roads by which machinery and supplies can be taken at a reasonable cost, hundreds, yes, thousands of gold seekers will flock into that region as soon as conditions will permit. And they must pass through our town en route. Think what this will mean for Wrangell!

Much is being said at this time of the Iskoot country, almost at the door of Wrangell. Several of our citizens are interested in that region, and there is no doubt that before long things will be doing there also.

Let the good work go on. Although all of these good things are on the Canadian side, Wrangell must first be consulted and benefitted before that land of promise can be reached.

The Cullen party is composed of C. L. Cullen, F. E. Cullen, A. E. Belfrey, E. Coleman, W. McNaul, A. Y. Z. McDonald, W. E. Lennox, F. E. Spriggs, A. Simpson and H. McCortney.

Christ Shafted Mourned

Unfortunate Man Meets Unknown Fate

About the 17th of March Christ Shafted, an old resident of Wrangell filled his skiff with provisions, his gun and traps with the intention of doing some trapping. He declared he would be gone about three weeks but did not mention where he was going. As Shafted, who is an old fisherman, did not appear in time for the run of salmon, his friends began to fear that an accident might have befallen him, but as no one knew where he was camping or in which direction he went, any search would, of course, be futile.

Tuesday last week, however, as Otto Hofstad was cruising in the vicinity of Elephants Nose on Woronofski Island, he saw a large skiff on the beach.

Having Shafted, and the fate which had befallen him, in his mind, he anchored and went ashore. He found Shafted's tent well hidden behind the trees. His gun was gone and Shafted was not to be seen. Upon investigation Hofstad decided that the lost man must have been gone at least a month.

He reported his discoveries and arranged for a searching party twelve men strong, which went out the following day. The party was made up as follows: Martin Hofstad, Capt. Johansen, Ole Johnson, George Johnson, F. E. Gingrass, Joe Ensley, Knute Anderson, Richard Hofstad, A. R. Hall, Fred Eriksen, Christ Velvoe and Thos. G. Figved, the writer, who went to represent

The Sentinel.

The chances for recovery of the dead man's body were, however, very small. The men were spread on both sides of the beach from the starting point, and the most experienced woodmen went inland. No trace could be found. The underbrush and windfalls covered the ground so thickly that a man might be only a few feet away from the body of the dead man without seeing it.

Towards evening the lost man's tent, skiff and other useful belongings were taken along and the party turned back to Wrangell.

It was learned from marks on the tide table left in the tent, that Shafted had been in his camp for the last time on April 14th.

How he has come to his death no man knows. He might have fallen between two logs and broken his leg, or he might have accidentally shot himself.

It is reported that a man going along the beach in that neighborhood about four weeks ago, heard some twenty rifle shots fired. It is a pity that this, if true, was not reported at the time so search parties might have been formed to look for the lost man.

A search party consisting of fourteen men went out again last Sunday, but had no more success in its endeavour than the first one.

Christian Shaftstad was born at Nesue, Nordland, Norway, 53 years ago. He had many friends here who regret his tragic death.

He was widely known for his musical talent, and he comes from a family that was musically inclined. He played the violin splendidly.

A brother of his, who died in California some time ago, was a complete artist, receiving a musical education from the best artists of Germany.

Shaftstad leaves, among others, a niece, Miss Ester Shaftstad, now living in Wrangell.

Fisherman Drowned Near Wrangell

John Matson Beratovich, a Russian Finn fisherman, about fifty years old and well known in this neighborhood, was drowned last night near the A. P. A. cannery. The last seen of him was when he boarded Reguer Daal's scow last night intoxicated. He was offered supper, but refused to eat. He drank some coffee, which seemed to sober him up some. He left the scow saying he was going to have a rest. He probably fell into the bay while leaving the scow and as he was wearing a pair of heavy rubber boots was unable to handle himself in the water, although he was said to have been an expert swimmer.

Last year he fell overboard from the floating dock below the Wrangell hotel, but was rescued. Marshal Schnable went over and took charge of the dead man's effects, consisting of a skiff, a fishing net and other personal property.

Among the big, bright prospects for Skagtown is a hog ranch. Corn planting time will soon be there.

Commencement Exercises Success

Wrangell May Well Be Proud of Her Public School.

May 23 was a day long to be remembered in Wrangell. The occasion was the graduating exercises of the Senior Class of 1913 of the Wrangell Public School.

Long before the doors were opened a crowd stood in front of Red Men's hall, eager to get seats as near the platform as possible. Before the exercises began the hall was filled to the doors. Miss Margaret Benson presided at the piano. The young lady is a finished musician and showed great skill in her playing.

The program was an exceedingly long one, but so interesting was it, that the audience seemed loth to go at its conclusion, although the hour was late.

Space forbids our going into full details of the program, but as a whole it was carried out in a manner reflecting great credit upon the highly efficient teachers who have had to do with the training of the young people.

To single out any particular scholar who took part in these exercises would not be doing justice to the balance of those taking part in the entertainment, for they were all 100 per cent strong should an average be drawn.

The salutatory, given by Adolph Wallace Engstrom, was handled in a masterly way by the young man and was received by loud and generous applause at its conclusion. It is herewith printed in full.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,
The Class of 1913 salutes you. We are honored by your presence and desire to extend to you a cordial welcome.

In the old Latin days we read of the god Janus, in whose honor the month of January is named. Janus had two faces, each looking in opposite directions. With one face set toward the past, he could, at the same time gaze into the future. Tonight, Janus-like, we look back over the years spent in the Public School, and forward to the future yet untried.

It was a custom among Roman people to erect statues of their heroes in public places that their youth in contemplating these statues might be inspired to emulate the noble examples placed before them.

We have enshrined within our hearts the character and example of men whose lives have been a blessing to mankind.

In the elder days of art,
Builders wrought with greatest care
Each minute and unseen part,
For the gods see every-where.

Let us do our work as well,
Both the unseen and the seen.
Make the house where gods may dwell
Beautiful, entire and clean.

Build today then strong and sure,
With a firm and ample base,
And ascending and secure
Shall tomorrow find its place.

The class of 1913 has chosen to be guided by the Compass. Our motto is "Honor and Labor." We may encounter shallows and rocky reefs and secret currents that flow with such resistless under-tow.

But if our souls but poise and

Like the compass in its brazen

Ever level and ever true

To the toil and the task we

We shall sail securely and

The fortunate Isles on

The sights we see and the

Shall be those of joy and [not of fear.

The class prophecy was read by Anna May Lewis in a highly gratifying manner, and was as follows:

CLASS PROPHECY.

From the depths of our crystal sphere

For the future seeks the seer.

Pluck I from the dainty flowers

Futures for this class of ours.

For our fair Valedictorian I see

A pleasant voyage across the sea.

To the land of the Vikings bold,

This, by the flowers I am told.

A wonderful stage before me is seen.

On it a beautiful tragedienne,

Grace is her name and graceful

her mien.

A most popular actress, this I ween.

The class of Dalgaty's youngest son

A famous electrician shall become.

Many years in the minds of men

His name and fame shall live, I ken.

A kindergarten teacher now I see,

Bachelor of Arts, her degree.

Much beloved she is, I'm sure,

Her cognomen, I see, is Moore.

What means this eager, anxious throng.

This crush, this push, this hurry along?

Mademoiselle Horgeim plays to-

tonight

This the flowers bring to light.

Our Salutatorian bends the knee

Before a ruler of High Degree.

He sailed from us to a foreign port;

His country guards at a kingly court.

For the Class Prophet, nothing I find,

Only petals that drift on the wind.

Will some fairy godmother come and see

If no good fortune waits for me?

Mayor Barnes representing the citizens of Wrangell, spoke a few encouraging words to the class reminding them that although it might seem to them that they had reached the goal, they had as yet taken but the first important step toward the final end of their school life.

Dr. Dawes, Secretary of the Board of Education, spoke words of congratulation to the class.

Mr. Grey after presenting each their diploma, delivered the principal address to the class and his remarks were listened to with marked attention.

Talitha Eldora Ensley gave the Valedictory in a manner highly pleasing to the attentive audience. It is herewith produced:

VALEDICTORY.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, TEACHERS AND CLASSMATES:—

Your presence with us tonight betokens your interest in us, in the progress of public schools and in the advancement of education.

The acquisition of an education may be likened to the building of a ship. First, we lay square the blocks upon the slip, then choose the timbers with greatest care. Nothing but perfectly sound material shall enter into this structure. Afterward lay the keel of oak, scarfed and bolted, straight and strong. But when the keel is laid the work is only well begun.

Happy, thrice happy, every one,
Who sees his labor well begun,
And not perplexed and multiplied
By idle waiting for time and tide.

At length commencement time arrives. The time for the launching of the vessel on the broad sea of life.

With each vessel is an anchor
Whose giant hand would reach down and grapple with the land,
And immovable and fast,
Hold the great ship against the bellowing blast.

Some vessels leave the harbor carrying sealed orders, not knowing whence they are bound. Some sail an unvarying course to a distant port, while others become derelicts on life's sea, useless to themselves and a menace to other voyagers.

Like unto ships far off at sea,
Outward bound are we.

At our mast we fly the motto,
"Labor and Honor," our compass is set.

Thus drifting afar to the dim vaulted caves,
Where life and its ventures are laid,

The dreamers who gaze while we battle the waves,
May see us in sunshine or shade.

Yet true to our course, though our shadow grow dark,
We'll trim our broad sail as before
And stand by the rudder that governs the bark.

Nor ask how we look from the shore.

Citizens of Wrangell: With the motto that we have chosen as our guide through life, and with the knowledge which we have acquired in the public schools as a foundation, we hope to rise to noble manhood and womanhood, a power for advancement, mentally, morally and economically.

Knowledge, labor, love and honor are the four great factors of the human existence. With these factors rightly used, manhood shall be glorified.

Gentlemen of the Board of Education: You have looked after our material interests in every way possible. We realize that your office is one of labor and care, rather than pleasure or profit, and we tender you our sincere thanks.

Teachers: If we make our lives such that you may say with pride, "These were mine," we feel that will best repay you for your love and labor.

Classmates: In the years spent together, we have learned to know and value one another. We now launch our vessel away from the shipyard, away from the master builder's hand. Our own eyes must now watch the compass and scan the chart. Our own hands must hold the rudder.

Fear not, for gentleness, love and trust

Prevail o'er angry wave and gust,
For spite of rock and tempests roar,
In spite of false lights on the shore
Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea,
For hearts and hopes are all with thee.

We go to battle with the waves, each his own captain and pilot. Before we lay anchor and sail away to become scattered on the sea of life, we each speak the other a last bon voyage.

And to you, kind friends, who have honored us by your presence tonight, we tender a farewell salute.

The exercises closed with a farewell chorus sung by the Seniors. The graduating class was made up as follows:

Adolph Wallace Engstrom, Talitha Eldora Ensley, Grace Matilda Wigg, Lloyd Edgar Dalgaty, Elsie Christine Moore, Olga Amanda Horgeim, Anna May Lewis.

The Sentinel desires to congratulate the class of '13 for the manner in which they brought to a close their first step of a higher education.

—Try a Lovera—better than ever.

Made Them Rhyme.
Moore, the Irish poet, was once at a dinner, and opposite to him sat a Mr. Reach, whose name Moore had seen in print but had never heard pronounced. The poet addressed him politely as "Mr. Reach."

"My name is Reach, sir," said Mr. Reach indignantly.

"Indeed?" replied Moore. "Well, Mr. Reach, will you kindly pass me a pen-ck?"

Told Him Twice.
The English tourist in Scotland, if he has not gone through a previous course of instruction in northern po-lemics, is apt to find himself handi-capped when entering into conversation, as shown by an amusing anecdote in a Glasgow paper.

An English tourist going along the Tron-gate encountered a crowd of the street accident type. Obeying the universal impulse, he joined it and put the usual question, "What's the matter here?"

A crier took his pipe out of his mouth for greater clearness of speech and said, "Flaflafflarry."

"I beg your pardon."

"Flaflafflarry."

"I'm very sorry," the Englishman said meekly, "but I don't understand what has happened."

The crier's neighbor turned angrily toward the inquirer, "Man, yer a thick heid. A'm shair he's telt ye twice that a fella fell aff a lorry."

It Got Monotonous.

A yellow negro in Kansas City decided that by barbering in the day time and fighting at night he could easily attain to great wealth. His first essay in pugilism was against a shifty black with a good ring record. At the tip of the bell the black professional planted a straight left on the amateur's nose and repeated the process some hundred times. By a superhuman effort the yellow barber came to a clinch and his voice rang high in agonized protest.

"Scattah yo' blows, niggah!" he demanded. "Fo' heaven's sake, scattah yo' blows!"—Success Magazine.

Cheaper to Travel Than to Stay at Home.

The St. Michaels Trading Co., local agents for the Northland Steamship Company, are in receipt of advice to the effect that the S.S. Al-Ki will carry passengers from Wrangell to Seattle via Juneau, Hoonah and the West Coast for the sum of $20.00. This includes berth and meals. Complete round trip $35.00. This new schedule calls for but one stop at Wrangell, the Al-Ki going direct to Juneau, thence down the West Coast to Ketchikan.

The service will be for the summer months only and should result in good patronage, as the scenery en route is well worth the price.

Women Form Civic Club.

A number of Wrangell's leading women met at the town hall on Monday night for the purpose of forming a Women's Civic Club. The purposes of the club are for the making of Wrangell a cleaner city, etc., and they propose to see to it that the streets and alleys are cleaned up and kept in better condition in the future. They ask that all residents of Wrangell get the spirit and clean up their yards so that the town will present a good appearance and attract strangers who visit our city.

It is a laudable scheme, and The Sentinel would suggest that a day be set aside in the near future to be known as yard cleaning day, and the women's club will see to it that the streets and alleys are looked after.

The ladies gave an ice cream social at Red Men's hall last night and a large crowd was present. The receipts for the evening were $117.00.

Bishop P. T. Rowe brought word from the Westward that Robert J. McClesney, whose foot was crushed in an accident with a falling tree at Port Wells several weeks ago, is recovering and that his foot will be saved. Half a dozen or more bones were broken and crushed, but they were successfully set, and are healing. He is at the Episcopal hospital at Valdez.

Saving His Son.
In the "Life and Works of Winslow Homer" by William Howe Downes, is this quaint anecdote:

Winslow Homer's relations with his father were always ideal and became more devoted as the father's life drew toward its end. But the father was a strong temperance man. He did not approve of Winslow's habit of taking what the New England folks call an "11 o'clocker." When he was at Prout's Neck, Winslow tried to induce his father to take a little something for his stomach's sake. At 11 o'clock he would bring him a cocktail, and the two regularly went through with the following dialogue:
"Now, father, don't you think you'd better take this? It will do you good."
"Is there any alcoholic liquor in that, Winslow?"
"Yes, father."
"Well, I won't touch it, then."
"Father, if you don't take it I'll drink it myself."
"Well, Winslow, rather than have you destroy the tissues of your stomach by drinking this alcoholic beverage I'll drink it."

Pumice Stone.

Pumice is an acid volcanic rock, which may be in either massive or finely comminuted form. It owes its peculiar porous, vesicular or pumiceous condition to the rapid expansion of included moisture or gases, due to sudden release of pressure at the time of its ejection from the volcano. This expansion may be carried to such an extent that the rock is completely shattered, and the resultant finely powdered material may be carried to unknown distances by wind and air currents and then deposited in beds several feet thick.

ORDINANCE NO. 40.
FIXING THE SALARIES OR COMPENSATION OF THE ELECTED OR APPOINTED OFFICERS OF THE COMMON COUNCIL OF WRANGELL, ALASKA, FROM APRIL, 1913, TO APRIL, 1914.

Be it ordained by the Common Council of Wrangell, Alaska:—
SEC. 1. That the salaries or compensation of the elected or appointed officers of the town of Wrangell, Alaska, for the term ending in April, 1914, shall be as follows:
Salary of the town clerk, $25.00 per month. Salary of assessor for actual time so employed, $3.50 per day. Poundmaster or town marshal, for each animal impounded or otherwise disposed of as provided for in ordinance No. 33, 75c per dog. For the removal of small dead animals, such as dogs, cats, etc., the health board is hereby authorized to employ some person to perform such work, the maximum price to be paid for such removal to be $1.00 for each animal so removed, and the health board of the Common Council shall designate in what manner dead animals shall be disposed of.

SEC. 2. The registrar of voters of the town of Wrangell, Alaska, shall receive the sum of 5 cents for each name entered upon the registration book. Judges and clerks of election shall receive the sum of $3 each for their services at any regular or special municipal election.

SEC. 3. The town treasurer shall be allowed the sum of $100.00 to be paid by the Town of Wrangell, Alaska, at the expiration of the term of office of the said treasurer, which allowance shall be made for auditing the books, making collections, paying claims and making reports to the Common Council. The Town of Wrangell shall furnish the necessary blanks, books, and stationery for the said Town Treasurer. The Town Clerk may purchase the necessary blanks, books and stationery for his own use that may be required to do the business for the said Town of Wrangell, and shall purchase other supplies for the Town that may be necessary, or that may be ordered purchased by the Common Council, but shall with each purchase present a bill of same, showing articles purchased and from whom purchased.

SEC. 4. The Street Committee are hereby authorized to employ laborers for street work, and shall keep the streets and alleys in proper condition and repair, the maximum price for such work to be thirty five cents per hour for common labor.

SEC. 5. The Fire Committee are hereby authorized to employ watchmen for the Town of Wrangell, when in their opinion the same may be necessary for the protection of life and property of the inhabitants thereof, and it shall be the duty of this committee to see that the watchmen so employed perform the duties assigned to them. The pay for such service is hereby fixed at $3.50 per day and the same shall apply to night service, the number of hours for either day or night service to be regulated by the Fire Committee.

SEC. 6. The Water Supervisor for the Town of Wrangell, Alaska, shall be paid the sum of $50 per hour for his services while actively employed. For all mechanics, or other skilled laborers employed on the waterworks, or for other purposes, it is hereby ordered that the ordinary wage rate for such skilled labor shall be paid.

TIME OF TAKING EFFECT.

SEC. 7. This Ordinance shall be published in one issue of the Wrangell Sentinel, a weekly newspaper published in the Town of Wrangell, Alaska, and shall take effect and be in force, from and after its passage, approval and publication. Passed and approved this 3rd day of May A. D. 1913.

GEO. H. BARNES,
President of the Common Council and ex-officio Mayor of Wrangell.

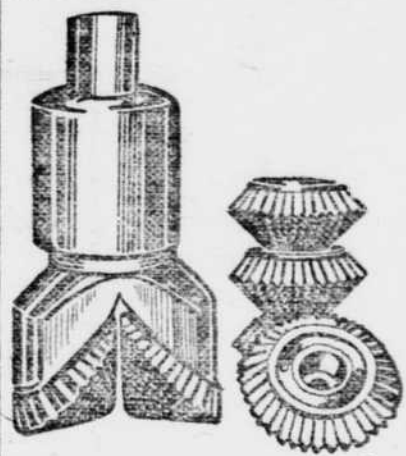

Attest:

Town Clerk, pro tem.

ROTARY BORING DRILL.

Removable Hard Steel Cones Grind Rapidly Through Rock.

For sinking oil and artesian wells through hard rock a new rotary drill bit, the invention of a Texas oil producer, is coming into very general use, says Popular Mechanics. Instead of scraping its passage through rock, as did the old one piece bits, this new instrument crushes its way downward at a rate many times that of the old bits.

The illustration suggests at once how the bit accomplishes its work. When rock is encountered the dirt bit is replaced by the rock bit, which screws on to the pipe by means of the large collar. The pipe revolves with its total weight resting on the rollers. These are thus made to turn by friction, and their hard steel teeth powder the rock beneath rapidly. The flow of water downward through the pipe and up on the outside washes away the powdered rock as fast as it is produced. A small pipe inside of the collar contains lubricating oil and a metal float which forces the oil through canals to the cones. The hardest alloy steel is used in manufacturing the bit. The cones are easily removed and replaced with new ones when they have become worn.

A GREAT INVENTION.

How the Bessemer Process Revolutionized the Steel Industry.

The pessimistic inventor who holds that the hand of all the world is against him and that his ideas are so ahead of the times that they may not be appreciated until he is dead and gone, is still broad in the land, writes W. A. Du Puy in Scientific American. He believes that he has the facts from which to draw a conclusion that he who makes an invention that is revolutionary is to suffer many reverses and to wait long for his reward. There are many cases of record to substantiate this belief. There is, however, a question of their application to the inventor of today.

There is the case of Sir Henry Bessemer, for instance, and his difficulty in inducing the world to use his obvious and revolutionary methods of producing steel. So great was the effect of the Bessemer process upon the steel business that the production in England jumped from 50,000 tons a year to 4,000,000 tons immediately after its introduction and so great was the effect of the cheaper methods of refinement upon price that steel declined from $300 a ton to $40 a ton. Yet the only way Bessemer could get his process used was to put up a factory, manufacture steel and undersell his competitors.

Bessemer went at the problem of improving the manner of making steel deliberately. He wanted a stronger metal for the barrels of big guns. He knew nothing of the business. He began at the bottom and learned the science of it. In the end he made a retreat with provision for forgery air in from below. He melted his iron and turned on the air. The whole immediately became a sparkling furnace that burned so hotly and so rapidly that it was impossible to reach the valve which would turn off the air. So hot was the fire that the very fastenings of the retort were nearly melted. The transforming process was, however, completed before the heat had demolished the plant. So was the discovery made.

Yet those people with whom Bessemer contracted for the use of his process failed utterly in getting results and abandoned it. He formed a company of his own, built a plant and began the production of steel. This he sold at a price that the producers under the old process could not meet and still made a fabulous profit. Thus, he proved the value of his patents and, after many years, brought them into general use and from the royalties he received he waxed fabulously rich.

Called His Bluff.

"He told her that he would gladly die for her."

"The same old bluff. Did it catch her?"

"No. She told him she would gladly let him!"

A Complex Accomplishment.

"I understand you speak French like a native."

"No," replied the student. "I've got the grammar and the accent down pretty fine, but it's hard to learn the gestures."—Washington Star.

Do It Now!

"Have you forgotten that $10 you borrowed of me some time ago?"

"Oh, no; I still have it in mind."

"Well, don't you think this would be a good time to relieve your mind?"—Exchange.
